7. Code section 490, subdivision (a), states:

The circumstances of the crime are as follows: On or about November 17, 2009, an officer with the Avenal Police Department ("APD") assisted Gang Task Force units in the service of a search warrant at Respondent's residence. During the investigation of another criminal matter, Juan Moreno ("Moreno"), a deported felon, |

Avenal State Prison. 1 A stab resistant tactical vest was recovered from at the residence at the time of the search. The officer contacted Lt. R.S. of the ISU unit at the prison and gave him the ID number of the vest. Lt. R.S. told the officer that the vest did not belong to Respondent and was the property of the California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation ("CDCR"), that Respondent did not have permission to take it from the prison, and that CDCR considered the vest stolen. Later that same day, the officer and Investigator J.D. went to the prison and interviewed Respondent. Respondent initially claimed that she had met Moreno in January 2006 while on a trip to Mexico. Respondent and Moreno had sex various times and Respondent became pregnant. Respondent also claimed that Moreno had come up from Mexico and had begun living with her and her four (4) children about one year earlier. The officer and J.D. informed Respondent that they knew Moreno had been an inmate in the prison and that she had been a nurse at the facility during the same time frame. Respondent then admitted that she had met Moreno while she was on duty in the prison. Respondent claimed that she and Moreno had only talked to each other, but had no physical contact while he was in custody (the officer was later informed by Lt. R.S. that Respondent and Moreno had face-to-face contact while Respondent was a nurse and Moreno was an inmate in the Special Housing Unit). Respondent admitted that she had smuggled several items, including a cell phone and other contraband, into the prison for Moreno. Respondent also admitted she had written a letter to the prison, stating that she was living with a convicted felon, but concealed the fact that the individual was a former inmate in the prison and a deported felon. Respondent also stated that she had lied to several law enforcement officials, including Sheriff's deputies and prison staff, as to Moreno's true identity. /// /// ///

¹ On December 27, 2010, the Board was informed by a representative of CDCR that Respondent had been employed as a licensed vocational nurse at the prison; however, she had resigned from state service on August 12, 2008. Prior to Respondent's resignation, the Kings County Sheriff's Office had notified the ASP Investigative Services Unit that she was involved with a parolee (Moreno).
